Dear Mr. Weeks:

The North Carolina Superfund Section has received and reviewed the subject document and offer the following comments:

1. Page 1. The phone number listed for the Poison Control Center at Duke University is incorrect. The correct number is 1-800-672-1697. It is recommended that the rest of the emergency phone numbers be checked.
2. Page 22. It is stated that advanced training will be provided to any personnel who will be expected to perform site work utilizing Level A protection. Advanced training is necessary whenever a Self Contained Breathing Apparatus (SCBA) is used: this included Level B protection.
3. Page 25. It is stated that an HNU with a 11.2 eV lamp will be used to monitor air. The HNU is available with a 10.2 or 11.7 eV lamp, not a 11.2 eV lamp.
4. Page 40. The arrows on the emergency route to the hospital map are time consuming to locate. It is recommended this route be marked with a colored highlighter.

Dear Mr. Froede:

The North Carolina Superfund Section has received and reviewed the subject document. Please note that the correct name of NCDEHNR is the North Carolina Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources. This should be corrected in the list of Acronyms and on page 4 of the text.

The North Carolina Superfund Section appreciates the opportunity to review this document. If you have any questions or would like to discuss the subject document, please contact Lee Crosby or me at (919) 733-2801.

Sincerely,
